India's Technical Textile Market Is Scaling. Tamil Nadu Is Leading It.

India's technical textiles market is projected to reach US$ 40–50 billion by 2030, driven by rising demand across industrial, medical, automotive, and infrastructure applications.

At the centre of this growth is Tamil Nadu one of India's most established textile manufacturing ecosystems with a strong foundation across the entire value chain.

Tamil Nadu is not just a textile hub, it is a manufacturing-driven economy contributing 11% of India's industrial output and 17% of its factories, making it one of the most industrially active states in the country.

Tamil Nadu's technical textile ecosystem is already diversified across:

With strong clusters in:

A Trusted Industry Platform

Built on the success of Techtextil India as a leading platform for technical textiles, nonwovens, and sport textiles, the Techtextil India Summit 2026: Tamil Nadu edition marks the brand's expansion into one of India's fastest-growing textile regions.

Taking place on 26–27 November 2026 in Coimbatore, the summit is supported by the Government of Tamil Nadu and aligned with the Tamil Nadu Technical Textile Mission (T³M), a key initiative driving innovation, manufacturing, and exports in the sector.

The summit is designed as a business-first platform, combining:

A focused exhibition

Industry-led conference sessions

Targeted networking opportunities

It brings together manufacturers, buyers, technology providers, and policymakers creating a space where real business decisions, partnerships, and investments take shape.

This is an opportunity to connect directly with the ecosystem driving the next phase of technical textile growth.
